they were particularly dangerous because the products mimicked the illegal drugs and had damaging physical and psychological effects on those who consumed or injected them aside from dyd being bullshit, the book recommendations were solid for the first and second generations, try using the mnemonic "hen pecks" to remember the spectrum of bacteria covered by each generation.

on the second friday of december and go into effect before the opening of trading on the monday following